In college, it's important to be proactive and to be a self-advocate. If you know or suspect you have a disability that is impacting your academic performance, contact Disability Programs & Services (DPS). DPS provides access to academic and co-curricular programs through reasonable accommodations and student-centered assistance. In high school, guidance counselors seek out students who need services, but in college, it is the student's responsibility to seek out services through DPS. To find out more about DPS, visit their website: http://disability.nku.edu/
