STUDENTS TO SCHOLARS PROGRAM (S2S) – FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

What is Students to Scholars (S2S)? Students to Scholars is a program that matches Black sophomore students with faculty and staff mentors to help connect you to the support and networking you need to be successful at NKU and beyond! The program includes up to $1000 in scholarships, and access to workshops, and internships.

Why Should you Apply? If you are interested in building your support system on campus and looking for ways to engage others about your future opportunities, while making lasting relationships in the process, this is the program for you.

Who is S2S for? S2S is for students with 30-59 credit hours earned (and can include your current credit hours enrolled for this semester). No other experience or qualifications are needed. We want to reach as many students as possible. So, if you have the credit hours, then this program is for you! Also: Do you want to participate with your friends, then apply together! Just note your friend's name on the application and we will try and pair you together in your co-mentoring group!

How and When Can You Apply? The application is super quick and easy! Just fill out some details about yourself and tell us about your experience at NKU so far. Want to learn more and apply: Click here for more information. But, hurry, the application ends soon, so make sure to apply before April 22, 2022.
