Anthropology Minor
Catalog Years 2019/20 and Prior

Because of the overlap in courses, anthropology majors may not minor in anthropology.

Program Director: Dr. Douglas Hume (humed1@nku.edu) Program Web Site: http://goo.gl/6bmWhA

In the words of the American Anthropological Association, “Only anthropology seeks to understand the whole panorama—in geographic space and evolutionary time—of human existence.” To study anthropology is to explore the many avenues of what it means to be human.

Among the many places NKU's anthropologists have conducted research are Australia, Belize, Fiji, Ghana, Ireland, Japan, Madagascar, Mali, Mexico, Papua New Guinea, Peru, Philippines, Spain, Thailand, Uganda, and a variety of places in the United States. NKU anthropologists participate in Anthropologists and Sociologists of Kentucky (ASK), as well as regional, national, and international anthropology organizations.

Anthropology minors are encouraged to participate in anthropology related student organizations. Each year NKU Anthropology presents the Outstanding Student in Anthropology Award and the Award for Academic Excellence in Anthropology.

Students of anthropology have many opportunities for study in the broader world outside the classroom—locally, nationally, and internationally. Also, every April anthropology faculty and alumni host an Anthropology Careers Day program to assist students.

Course Requirements for Minor (22 semester hours)

Required Courses (16 semester hours)

- ANT 100 Introduction to Cultural Anthropology OR ANT 100H Honors Introduction to Cultural Anthropology
- ANT 110 Unearthing the Past: World Archaeology
- ANT 202 Introduction to Physical Biological Anthropology and Laboratory (4 credit hours)
- ANT 210 Introduction to Archaeological Methods and Theory
- ANT 275 Language and Culture

Electives - Choose Two 300 or 400 Level Anthropology Courses (6 semester hours)

- ANT ___ ______________________________
- ANT ___ ______________________________