NRS 494: Maternal and Women's Healthcare: A Cuban Perspective

This spring semester course will examine maternal and women's healthcare in Cuba. As a country with a low infant and maternal mortality, no shortage of medical personnel and that views health as a right of all its people, Cuba offers a fascinating opportunity to explore its provision of healthcare. In May, students will travel to Cuba, visit healthcare agencies and stay in the homes of Cuban families. Knowledge of Spanish is not necessary.
