Call to Order, Adoption of Agenda

The meeting was called to order by Senate President John Farrar at 3:04 pm with a quorum present. The agenda was adopted without additions or corrections.

Approval of Minutes

The minutes of August 29, 2022 were approved.

Guest Reports:

- President (Ashish Vaidya):
  - He presented concerning news about the budget, as a result of enrollment trends, institutional aid issues, and instructional costs having risen more rapidly than revenues. It is not yet clear how this occurred, although contributing factors likely include a focus and priority on retention and career/community pillars, the pension/KERS exit, and the aftermath of a pandemic. With experience in leading through challenges both at NKU and previous institutions, he is committed to a repositioning plan with the help and input of faculty and staff. There will be a campus Town Hall on the issue; details will be distributed in the next day or two.
  - In response to questions, comments, and concerns:
    - There has been a significant drop in enrollment, compared to last fall. This was a surprise since, even as recently as July, the enrollment prediction looked healthy. It appears anxiety and other mental health issues, were a factor in students dropping.
    - There has been a market shift which, while challenging, will also create opportunities with the repositioning.
    - He acknowledged that a budget Innovation Challenge was a good idea, as well as other senator suggestions - the need for input from everyone on campus in response to the budget condition, and that the Financial Exigency Committee could also be called together due to this situation.

- He does not yet know the exact deficit figure.
- As to whether Athletics is on the table for potential cuts, that has yet to be determined. All aspects of NKU’s operations and services will be examined in regard to short and long term consequences.

Provost (Matt Cecil):
- Fifty small group listening meetings on the budget have been scheduled in October starting on the 10th; some will be via sign-up and others walk-in. The scope of the problem will be laid out at a Finance Town Hall on October 6. He welcomes ideas to help solve the problem, as the process to recalibrate the budget will be very difficult and disruptive.
- There is a five million dollar shortfall in tuition.
- He thanked Dale Stephenson, outgoing dean of the College of Health and Human Services, for his service. Dean Stephenson will retire January 1. Diana McGill, dean of the College of Arts & Sciences, and Trina Cossin, chair of Allied Health, will co-chair a search for an interim dean to be chosen from internal candidates. He hopes the process will be complete by the end of October to allow for a smooth transition.
- In response to questions, comments, and concerns:
  - The University of Cincinnati is in a different category of institution than NKU. They made a change, which accounts for the school’s largest enrollment in history, which was to admit more marginal students. He questions this tactic and does not believe NKU should compare itself to them. NKU must look at our market and do a better job of targeting students.
  - Accelerated Programs (AP) will be reviewed in light of the budget situation; everything is on the table.

Faculty Regent (Michael Baranowski):
- The Board of Regents (BOR) met last week and the conversation at the dinner the night before was on the budget. This is an engaged Board who works well with the president and his team.
- NKU is still considering whether they should be a charter school authorizer. The subcommittee discussing this, of which he is a member, will make a recommendation for the next BOR meeting in November.

Staff Congress Representative (Steve Slone):
- The Outreach Committee is looking to create a database of organizations in which staff and faculty participate. They will be reaching out to current Staff Congress members as a start and identify gaps or areas of opportunity.
- Staff Congress is having discussions around the Commuter Meal Plan, which seems to be a tripwire/barrier to many students, including adult learners. Questions/concerns stem from:
  - Students are unable to use vending machines using these funds.
  - Dining services are unavailable to adult learners taking courses in evening/weekend.
  - Where does the money go if not used?
  - Funds do not carry over into the summer semester.
October is Sustainability Month. Tiffany Budd is planning events during the month, so please check out Sustainability’s website for more information.

Staff Congress is continuing their drive to benefit FUEL NKU. An email was sent to campus listing items that are currently needed. Items can be placed in bins that are located in various buildings across campus.

He introduced Sara Conwell who is a member of the Outreach Committee. She may fill in as the Staff Congress representative at future Senate meetings.

SGA Representative (Jaelynn Gentry):
- There are currently three vacant Board positions. She asked senators to let her know if they have any student recommendations for those spots.

“Help A Norse” overview (Bob Alston, Assistant Dean of Students):
- Dr. Alston provided a PowerPoint presentation (see attached) on “Help A Norse,” which supports NKU’s Coordinated Care model. This will streamline practices that support students.

Observer Access in Canvas for Athletics’ Advisors (Alyssa Mathews, Madison Garrott, Debbie Kirch, David Agard):
- Athletics’ academic advisors, Alyssa and Madison, made a PowerPoint presentation (see attached) on observer access in Canvas as a way to assist and monitor student athletes. Pros and cons were given. Feedback was requested from senators and their departments.
- In response to questions, comments, and concerns:
  - Confidentiality is already addressed as athletes sign a FERPA release form.
  - A timeframe has not been established for implementation, although a target date is the end of spring semester.
  - A professor would have to opt-in to allow observer access; however, they are interested in feedback on this issue from faculty to determine the preference of opting-in or opting-out.

Young Scholar’s Academy (Dan Ginn, Director):
- Dan Ginn, recently appointed director of the Young Scholar’s Academy, and his staff of two work with high schools (parents/students) and NKU faculty who teach these students who earn college credit. There are 214 Young Scholars in every single school and department on campus. If there are questions about the program at any time, please feel free to get in touch with him.

Officer Reports:

Senate President (John Farrar):
- The budget has been the focus of many discussions this month. There is work to do and Senate will be a part of that work.

Secretary (Laura Sullivan):
- No report.

Faculty Advocate (Phil McCartney):
- No report.
Committee Reports:

- University Curriculum Committee (Richard Fox):
  - The committee’s recent meeting primarily consisted of talking about the Focus. Rudy Garns, director of Integrative Studies, wanted to modify the definition to include 12 advanced hours of an approved major or minor. However, the committee discovered this would not work well because a Focus could be taken in some disciplines which included too many courses in other disciplines, such as a Focus in German that contained no German courses. Rudy was asked by the chair if he could update his program’s requirements rather than change the Focus itself. The committee still plans to discuss options for a multidisciplinary Focus as well as remove the three Foci that are in the catalog.
  - There were only a few curricular proposals to approve, but more are expected next month.

- Budget (Janel Bloch):
  - The committee’s first meeting was last week. The new Vice President of Administration and Finance (VPAF)/CFO, Jeremy Alltop, and the provost gave budget updates and addressed questions. VPAF/CFO Alltop addressed the issue of parking and Lori Southwood, Chief Human Resources Officer, provided details on the faculty/staff waiver. The committee also compiled a list of questions/concerns from committee members, which were submitted to the VPAF and the provost for consideration in preparation for the October 6 budget forum.

- Benefits (Mike DiCicco):
  - The committee met last month. The annual Faculty Development Award (FDA) workshops have taken place; they were sparsely attended and the interest for the awards seems low. Subcommittees are being finalized for application review.

- Professional Concerns (Kathleen Fuegen):
  - The committee discussed problems associated with the grade submission deadline for 7-week courses. These courses end on a Friday, and grades are due the following Tuesday at 9am. The tight deadline may affect the types of assignments given in these courses. Students do not see their final assignment grade before seeing their final course grade. There is no time to deal with corrupted files submitted on the last day of class. PCC has proposed extending the grade submission deadline by 48 hours. The Registrar is willing to extend the deadline by 24 hours but is concerned about whether students will have enough time to change their course schedule before the beginning of the following term. The provost is seeking additional feedback about the burden placed on faculty and the needs of students enrolled in 7-week courses.
  - A second issue discussed was whether to include language in the Faculty Handbook that explicitly states that conversations between faculty members and the Faculty Advocate regarding reappointment, promotion, and tenure matters and performance review are confidential. The Faculty Advocate (FA) meets with faculty to address concerns. The FA wants to make it clear that faculty can discuss APR and RPT issues with the FA without violating confidentiality rules. The Senate Constitution says these discussions are confidential. However, this is not addressed in the Handbook where faculty would most likely look. At the next meeting, the committee will discuss adding language regarding confidentiality to those sections of the Handbook that address performance review; reappointment, promotion, and tenure; and grievances.

- Finally, the committee discussed whether a person should not be permitted to serve on an RPT committee if their spouse is submitting a dossier for reappointment, promotion, or tenure. Currently there is no specific language in the Handbook barring someone from serving on their spouse’s RPT committee. It has been suggested that this should be made explicit in the Handbook. There was agreement that such language should be included in the Handbook. Possible additions to the Handbook will be addressed at the next meeting.

- TEEC (Chris Lawrence):
  - TEEC continues to work with Explorance to prepare for the launch of the new course evaluation system. The committee is reviewing the size of the question bank and compiling a list of terms to use with text analytics in the new software.

- General Education Committee (Andrea Brooks):
  - The committee has held two meetings so far this year.
  - At the first meeting, the GEC passed a motion to pause new course proposals for the year. There was much discussion in favor of this motion. Several new courses were added to the program at the end of last year – for this year. There was general agreement that the committee will focus this year on making the program that we have as strong as we can. Focus will be on two areas – one is communication and perception of the general education curriculum especially from the student perspective; the other focus is on professional development with general education instructors. This work will be shared between two subcommittees. Other projects are on the committee’s agenda for the year, including a syllabi review, but that won’t happen until the spring.
  - Tonya Krouse spoke at the last meeting to answer questions about the STAR program, which is a pilot pathway through general education with a focus on humanities. The program relies on existing general education courses – it is not a proposal for new Gen Ed courses. The committee will be keeping an eye on this year and staying informed as that progresses.
  - The committee’s next meeting is a week from today.

New Business (John Farrar):

- Discussion item, proposed amendments to the Faculty Senate Constitution (2 attachments)
  - He has been working on changes to the Constitution in order to clarify a number of sections, including that of the Elections Committee, in light of the issue that developed with the FA election last spring. Another area that has generated questions is the way in which faculty are determined to be faculty, which has been defined as those who spend 25% or less of their time in an administrative appointment. Also, a change is being proposed for part-time faculty to be voting members of Senate.
  - These, and other proposed changes, can be further discussed at the October meeting.
    - Discussion followed regarding the pros and cons of including part-time faculty on Senate.
Old Business (John Farrar):

- The Academics and Admissions Policy Committee, 2022-2023, members are: Dolores White (CHHS), Rick Boyce (CAS), Mike DiCicco (COE), Awad Mussa (COI), Sandra Spataro (COB). Alexis Miller (PCC, non-voting), Sara Runge (UCC, non-voting).
- Nominations are still needed from COE and Chase for the Elections Committee, 2022-2023. Other members are: Greg Hatchett (COHHS, Chair), Mike Waters (CAS), Susan Brudvig (COI), Bob Russ (COB). Need nominations from COE and Chase.

Announcements (John Farrar):

- Norse Appreciation faculty recognition for September are: Amanda Kilmer, Beth Hickey, Boshra Karimi, Eric Jackson, Jeffrey Zimmerman, Joetta Browning, Julie Hart, Karen Miller, Nick Bonner, Shawn Nordheim, and Traci Freeman.

The meeting was adjourned at 5:11 pm.
