NKU is committed to tolerance, inclusion and respect for others, regardless of differences. All members of the NKU community strive to treat others with professional courtesy and civility, regardless of position or status, and to work cooperatively with others. University community members seek to promote equality and collaboration among faculty, staff and administrators. NKU provides equal access to programs, facilities and employment; and seeks to foster positive campus change through greater diversity, equity, inclusion and accountability.

IV. ETHICAL RESPONSIBILITIES

In addition to following these guidelines, the faculty, staff, administrators, student-workers, members of the Board of Regents, and other affiliated individuals in conducting the affairs of NKU will comply with all federal, state and local laws and regulations as well as university policies, procedures, and codes in the performance of job-related duties. The values, principles and standards of conduct in this policy are supported through university policies, procedures and guidelines and provide guidance for making decisions as well as document NKU’s commitment to responsible and ethical behavior.

All NKU faculty, staff, administrators, and members of the Board of Regents who are members of occupations or professions that have established standards or codes of ethics shall, in addition to the responsibilities referenced in this document, be bound by the standards of conduct and/or codes of ethics that apply to such occupations or professions.

Preserve Academic Freedom and Meet Academic Responsibilities

Academic freedom is essential to NKU’s mission. University community members are expected to:

- Accept his/her share of responsibilities for the governance of the university; and
- Where appropriate, assist the university in meeting its public engagement mission.

The freedom of speech of community members includes the freedom to express their views on matters having to do with their institution and its policies. This freedom should be accorded – and rights to it protected – because grounds for thinking an institutional policy desirable or undesirable must be heard and assessed if the community is to have confidence that its policies are appropriate. The faculty protection for Academic Freedom is described in Section III, Items A-D, in the Faculty Policies and Procedures Handbook, which is incorporated herein by reference.

• Refrain from engaging in copyright infringement or plagiarism;

Teachers are entitled to full freedom in research and in the publication of the results, subject to the adequate performance of their other academic duties; but research for pecuniary return should be based upon an understanding with the authorities of the institution. Teachers are entitled to freedom in the classroom in discussing their subject, but they should be careful not to introduce into their teaching controversial matter which has no relation to their subject.

Avoid Conflict of Commitment and Interest
University community members have a responsibility to maintain objectivity and impartiality when making decisions on behalf of NKU. To ensure objectivity, community members are expected to:

• Base decisions on judgment free from conflicting interest;
• Avoid conduct that may in any way lead members of the general public to conclude that he or she is using an official position to further professional or private interests or the interests of any members of his or her family;
• When conducting or participating in any transaction, disclose any real or perceived conflict with personal interests and remove himself or herself from further participation; and
• Ensure personal relationships do not interfere with objective judgment in decisions affecting university employment and/or the academic progress of a community member.

Carefully Manage Public, Private and Confidential Information
University community members are the creators, custodians and stewards of many types of information, much of which is confidential. Access to this data and the individual’s right to privacy are governed by both laws and university policies. In order to meet our responsibilities, university community members are expected to:

• Learn and follow laws, regulations and university policies regarding access, use, protection, disclosure, retention and disposal of public, private and confidential information;
• Follow document retention and disposal guidelines;

This committee consisted of members from Academic Affairs, Administration and Finance, Student Affairs, University Advancement, General Counsel, faculty, the student body and local first responders. The report given to Faculty Senate is an effort to provide transparency for the actions of this group. Two documents were previously distributed to the Senate: Emergency Notification Protocol, and an Emergency Preparedness Update. Highlights of these documents included:
    - Emergency Preparedness Update:
• Description of Committee
• Emergency notification protocol
• Emergency Communications Plan
• Norse Alert Opt-out
• RedMan/Alice training
• Building emergency action plan
• Response drill

- Benefits (Matthew Zacate):
A subcommittee of the Benefits Committee has been formed to review faculty and staff use of the tuition waiver benefit.

A health care survey will be distributed to faculty mid-week. This survey will give the committee information for reviewing RFPs of health care providers later this semester.

RECOMMENDATION:

That the Board of Regents approve the proposed addendum to the Values and Ethical Responsibilities Statement.

BACKGROUND:

In April 2016, the Board of Regents approved revisions to the Values and Ethical Responsibilities Statement. The Board of Regents deleted one paragraph from the document because of concerns with a possible conflict with an existing policy. Since the April 2016 Board meeting, the Faculty Senate Professional Concerns Committee and the Staff Congress have approved the following language to replace the previously deleted paragraph.

The freedom of speech of community members includes the freedom to express their views on matters having to do with their institution and its policies. This freedom should be accorded – and rights to it protected – because grounds for thinking an institutional policy desirable or undesirable must be heard and assessed if the community is to have confidence that its policies are appropriate. Protecting the academic freedom on campus requires ensuring that a particular instance of faculty speech will be subject to discipline only where that speech violates some central principle of academic morality, as, for example, where it is found to be fraudulent (academic freedom does not protect plagiarism and deceit). Protecting academic freedom also requires ensuring that faculty status turns on a faculty member’s views only where the holding of those views clearly supports a judgment of competence or incompetence. The faculty protection for Academic Freedom is described in Section III, Items A-D, in the Faculty Policies and Procedures Handbook, which is incorporated herein by reference.

The red line document reflects the changes to the April 2016 proposed paragraph that was deleted by the Board of Regents. Upon approval, this new paragraph will be inserted into the Values and Ethical Responsibilities statement in the section and location where the previous paragraph was deleted.
